into the street.
Such a scene of devastation and misecy as preset ted itself immediately after the edifice fell, it would be difficult to convey.
Almost from McVicker's Theater, on square, the frame tenements which had stood there were so completely flattened and crushed that the upper stories were on a level with the sidewalk. The sidewalks were entirely uprooted from the ground, and the outer edges stuck ont in the form of an abauti. Clambering up to these swaying planks, one had to sidedown an inclined plane to the horribh mass of ruins in the center. And such a mass! It was impenetrable, one would have thought, and for the helpless men and women and children who were groaning and screaming in agony far below, there seemed but small hope of succert who had been furied were recovered.

To give a more accurate conception as to the exteut of the disaster, we will name the several tenements which fell under the terrible avalanche. On Madison street the first building next to the theater is that which Mr. Frank Monroe occupies as a sahen. This was untouched. Adjoining it was a small boot and shoe store kept by B. Imile, and the uext was another of similar dimensions occupied as a barber shop by a man named follower. At the corner of Madison and State streets was a saloon kept by James Stenson. Following that on State street was the confect of the Craib. Then exact the brick hidding. On the south side of it was a large dwelling house, in which dwells a humber of boarders, presided ever by Mrs. Van Belson. The Heraid's Indianapolis special says:
"A terrible gale of wind swept over this State last night, doing great damage in this city. Quite a number of buildings were blown down or unroofed."

The Heraid's Washington special details an alleged discovery of the plans of the radicals to impeach and depose the President. A large force of Boys in Blue were to be sent to Washington to protect and aid Congress in its schemes. A general distribution of arms throughout the West had been made by the radical Governors. The story is startling if true.

The Heraid's Washington special says: The actual facts regarding the rumored resignation of Secretary Stanton are as follows: He is now engaged in making out his report, and as soon as it is finished he will undoubtedly retire. His resignation has been precipitated by the discovery, lately made, that Mr. Stanton has filled nearly all the vacancies in the regular army without the knowledge or assent of Mr. Johnson. He has been for some time making out the commissions and forwarding them to the appointees, with orders to them to report to Gan. Grunt for duty. Gen. Grant, supposting them, as appeared from the face of their papers, duly appointed by the President. On learning this fact, the President was very angry. He sent for Mr. Stanton, and demanded an explanation. The result was the retirement of Mr. Stanton as soon as he could make out his report, on which he is now engaged.

THE FENIANS AT TORONTO.

Indictment of three Prisoners

During the sitting of the Assize Court yesterday, the Grand Jury found trne bills against three of the Fenian prisoners, Rev. John McMahon, Rev. D. F. Lumsden and Col. Robert B. Lynch. The three were brought to the Conrt-house, and placed in the dock, separately, under charge of the Sheriff's officers.

Col. Robert B. Lynch was the first arraigned. He is a short, thick set man, not at all bad looking. He made his appearance in a very respectable suit of clothes.

The Clerk of the Court read the indictment against him, while he stood in the dock and listened. The indictment set forth that he, Robert B. Lynch, late of Loniaville, Kentneky, being a citizen of a foreign State at peace with Her Majesty the Queen, did, on the first day of June 1868, with divers other evil-disposed persons, with force and arms, nnlawfully and felonionally enter the Province of Canada day next.

His Lordship—Well, if yon will be ready then, well and good. There is no wish to harry yon.

Rev. D. F. Lumsden, of Nanles, New York State, at one time an Episcopal elergyman, was next arranged. He was also well dreased, wearing a sait of black clothes, with clerical cut, and a white neckie. He is a tall, massive built man, with a culm steady look.

Prisener—I do not think that Frid y will inconvenience me. I am to be deferded ly Mr M. C. Cameron.

Mr. McMichael said he h ped Mr. Cameron would be in town to-morrow.

It was finally arranged that before fixing a day for the trial, Mr. M. C. Cameron should be personally consulted by the prisoner. The latter then left the dock, and his stand was taken by Rev. John McMahon, Catholic priest, of Buffalo. The prisoner was respected by dressed in clerical habiliments, and the indictment in his case was the same as the rest. He Mattersin Baltimore are approachto yield or bloodshed will follow. It is plain that the radicals should yield. The law is against them.

The case is not a complicated one. It is simple. The law of Maryland empowers the Governor during the recess of the Legislature to remove the Police Commissioners of Baltimore for official misconduct. Those Commissioners, during the recess of the Legislature, are accused of proposes to investigate the accusation, and, if it shall be found just, to remove them. The Commissioners dispute his Such is the case.

The Governor is clearly right. They peace and national concord. announce their intention to rebel against dertake to bully the Governor.

It was as the mouthpiece of this set that John W. Forney several days ago addressed to the Philadelphia Press a letter of which the telegraph gave us a version. In that letter, Forney says:

men in Baltimore swear that they will drench the streets with blood but they will protect their rights and the law. The brave General Dennison and the gallant General Woolcy have both offered their services to the Mayor, and the returned veterans of the Union army are ready to Sections of the Chion army are ready to Sight. Swann will have a terrible responsi-bility if he should do this thing to defeat Stewart, Thomas, and Creewell. They are all good radical Unionists and the people will and can elect them under the people will and can elect them under the law. It is only by lawlessness that they can be overcome, and it is said that Johnson has promised some l'ederal soldiers to help him put down the Union men of Maryland. If he shall attempt this, there will be civil war. The men here mean fight. They do not mean to submit and will not submit. All they ask is that the mighty North shall stand by them in their struckle for liberty and Union. struggle for liberty and Union.

The Ledger despatch was but the pio-neer of a prepared usurpation; and the first act of the tragedy will come off in Maryland, unless the traitors and their ool, Andrew Johnson, are convinced tha the spirit which met and mastered the re-bellion in 1861, and which rebuked so overwhelmingly the recollationary ques-tions in the despatch referred to, a few days ago, is organized to rise against them d to chastise them as they deserve. My emn belief is that Andrew Johnson will resisted by the people, as resisted it will be In that event, let the North be pre ared! Let Pennsylvania be ready Thus saith Forney, on behalf of the binations against the peace and dignity of the State, that, in the event of riot and merited punishment.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State of Marvland at Annapolis the 22d of October, A. D. 1866. By the Governor: THOS. SWANN, JNO. M. CARTER, Sec y of State.

The date of the proclamation, as will be noticed, is the 22d instant. Now, a Baltimore despatch of the 21st instant, which re published yesterday, says "Governor Swann returned late last night from his visit to President Johnson." The Governor, therefore, issued this proclamation after consultation with the President. This fact gives additional significance to the proclamation, which, all things condered, signifies that the lawful action of the Governor will be anstained not only by the whole power of the State, but by the whole power of the general Government. The proclamation can signify poshing less.

But that word those leaders will never speak. The rule of the minority in those three States they deem essential to their party strength. Whatever may be the national necessity for a restoration of national concord, or however great the national peril to be avoided, they will never do anything that seemingly tends to ndanger their party supremacy.

For the sake of that supremacy, they are endeavoring to force from the fifteen Southern States as obnoxious a constitutional amendment as could be devisedan amendment which it would be the extreme of degradation in them to accept under any compulsion, and the voluntary ratification of which would be dishonoring to any State, as it proposes, among other outrages, a perfidiously base violation of the amnesty under which the rebels laid down their arms. Such a wide-sweeping disfranchisement and disqualification as that proposed is about as grievous a pen alty as could be inflicted upon Americanfreemen; a penalty in the contemplation of no one at the time of the surrendercertainly not in the anticipation of those who made or of those who so gallantly conquered the surrender.

We have deemed it our dnty as public sentinels to point out this great national danger, and give the warning. We leave it to those who have the power to apply the remedy.

The political thraidom in which two-thirds of the people of these States suffer, under the infamously tyrannical Constitutions forced upon them by the aid of Federal bayonets, seems to be comparatively overlooked, whilst all patriotic concern is aroused by the really minor grievances suffered by the ten States from their ingrevolutions in England. John Bright's recent speech and the occasion of its delivery mark the opening of in imperiant epoch in English history. Two hundred thousand men do not assemble for nothing in Manchester, the commercial center of Great Britain. Since the Eirmingham meetings of 1832, which the fires of rebellion in the country, there has been no gathering in England. has been no gathering in England so sig-nificant as this. Great results must inev-itably follow from it. A radical revolu-tionary movement is commencing in En-gland and in Ireland, and John Bright has placed himself at the head of it in both countries. No better man could be se-lected. As a revolutionary leader, Bright is far superior to Cobden. Cobden was a retail agitator; Bright does everything by wholesale. He handles men and meas-ures without gloves, yet so shrewdly ures without gloves, yet so shrewdly that no one can toneh him or accuse him of treason. He conciliates the him of treason. He conciliates the Queen by saying there is no opposition to the throne, but lets the entire weight of his forcible denunciation fall upon the lauded aristocracy. The facts he states are not new to American readers, but their reiteration at the present moment has great significance. England is now precisely in the same position that France was before the revolution of 1796, which extinguished the ancient regime. There are five millions of full-grown men who extinguished the ancient regime. There are five millions of full-grown men who are taxed in every possible way, directly or indirectly, without having any political power, and there are one million of paupers. The whole landed property of Great Britain and Ireland is in the hands of less than fifty thousand families. Before the revolution in France one of the greatest crievances of the propile was that the revolution in France one of the grentest grievances of the people was that the landed estates were monopolized by eighty thousand families. England's position is even worse than this. Her artisans have studied American affairs and read American newspapers. They have seen our aristocracy rise in rebellion against the government and they have seen them suppressed. They now see their own aristocracy bent on retaining all the powers of the government in their own hands, and they will rise in rebellion against them and suppress them.

General Steedman not long ag delivered a speech at his home in Toledo. Ohio. In the course of the speech, he drew the following sketch, which is making the circuit of the press under the title f "A FIGHTING GENERAL'S OPINION OF

I know that this distinguished Massachusetts General, Benjamin F. Butler, [laughter] says he is going to march from Massachusetts to Washington with his militia. Well, now, he didn't hurt anybody during the war, and I have no idea that he will hurt anybody now. [Laughter]

It he marches and there is any fighting going on, I will warrant you he will march in the rear of his column. I have searched that gentleman's military record in vain to find a place where he led a column. He never did lead it anywhere.
Perhaps he thinks as he didn't make any reputation in the last war, it is necessary for him to get up another one, in order to redeem himself. [Laughter.] No doubt General Ratter had a good many fierce people to deal with during the war, no determine the a good deal during the war; no doubt he was provoked a good deal during his administration in New Orleans, and goaded to say a great many things that do not look well on paper. I do not like to comment upon anything done by a Union General, but I am bound to say now that, throughout the war, that General was remarkable only for his severity on women and children. [Cries of "spoons."] He was fierce to defenceless people. That required no courage. People who were within our lines, and whose protectors were gone—he was very harsh to them It is true their protectors had no right to go, and they deserved, perhaps, all they got, but no brave man would take an advantage of that kind against women and children, and General Butler is the only man that ever did it.

The amount of this is that General Steedman thinks General Butler a coward, opinion of a Fighting General.

CORONER'S CONTESTED ELECTION.-The contested election suit brought by Dr Hansborough against Dick Moore, the successful candidate for Coroner of this county at the August election, will be argued before the Board of Commissioners to-day. A strong array of legal talent i engaged. The attorneys for the defend-ant are Isaac Caldwell, Esq., Judges Suites, Bullitt, and Monroe; for the plain tiff, Generals Jackson and Reed, Colonel Cochrane, Messrs. Speucer and Bernard. This contest is based upon a mere technicality-the failure of the clerk in one of the precincts to attach the proper certificate to the poll register. After the canceling of this imperfect record, Mr. Moore s majority over the contestant was about forty votes, and a certificate of election was issued to him. We must say that the grounds npon which the suit was instituted are of the flimsiest character and warrant the prompt sustaining of Mr. Moore in his rightful tenure. So far as the American Revolution. we have had the means of ascertaining. this is the general opinion. Since Mr Moore's installment into office, he has been invariably efficient in the discharge of his duties. No man has given greater satisfaction as a public officer. It is therefore a matter of interest to the city and county, apart from the justness of Mr. Moore's elective claims, that he should be secured in his title to the office of Coroner We trust that ench will be the decision of the Commissioners. The case is to be tried before His Honor Judge Hoke and Justices Matlack and Stevens, in the County Court

"We presume that an application will be made to the Legislature at its approaching session for au appropriation to sustain the State Fair and every tax-payer has a right, it for no other reason than that he helps to pay the money, to discuss this matter. The agricultural interest of Kentucky is far greater than every other interest together. We believe the wealth of this interest is about three-fourths of the entire wealth of the State, and largely over three-fourths of her population are actually engaged in the various pursuits included under the general term Agriculture. It follows that the State ought to make every constitutional and wise effort to foster, increase and develope this interest. It is the basis of all wealth and prosperity. BANCROFT'S HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES. Vol. IX.

In this-the third volume devoted to the American Revolution-the historian resumes the thread of his narrative in describing the effects of the Declaration of Independence in 1776, and carries it on to 1775. One more volume will complete

The Shooting of C. H. Bent. A melancholy event, growing out of omestic difficulties of a very delicate na demented discusses a very decease haver decease have covered yesterday, resulting in the death of Charles II. Bent, Agent of the Associated Press at this place, at the hands of Mr. Hugh F. McGavock. We give the following details:

At about 1 o'clock Bent left the Banner office, where he had been for a few moments on hosiness and upring the corner.

cfice, where he had been for a few moments on business, and turning the corner of Deaderick street, went up Cherry as far as Cone s bookstore. He entered the store, and a few minutes later passed out, accompanied by Mr. E. P. Johnson, a clerk in the Tax Commissioner s office. McGavock stood at the entrauce of the ice house, across the alley, waiting for the appearance of Bent, and as soon as the two came up he pushed Bent away from Johnson, that the latter might not be hit, and fired his pistol, the ball entering the floshy part of the left arm of Bent, near the shoulder and passing into the lung.

Ecut was about three feet from McGavock at the time the shot was fired, and he ock at the time the shot was fired, and he cck at the time the shot was fired, and he immediately grasped his wounded arm, pressing his hand to his chest by way of supporting it, and started across the street. As he was stepping upon the pavement of the capposite side, McGavock again fired, the ball entering under the right shoulder blade four inches from the spine, passing through the wind-pipe, and coming out near the left side, three inches from the breast boue. McGavock was called on to desist, but no one interfered and he atlesist, but no one interfered, and he atdesist, but no one interfered, and he attempted to fire again, the pistol only snapping. Meanwhile Bent rau rapidly up the street, followed by McGaveck, and upon reaching the corner called to his pursuer not to shoot again. He then dashed up Union street, and was just turning the corner of the alley leading to Charch street, when he stumbled and fell upon his face, about three feet from the wall of the undertaker's establishment of wall of the undertaker's establishment of J. H. Chrry. McGarock stood at the corner of Union street until he saw him fall, and then walked down Cherry street. A crowd quickly gathered about the body of Bent, and people from all quarters rushed to the spot. He was lifted up, carried into Mr. Curry's shop, and placed upon a bier, a handkerchief covering his face.

A great crowd had gathered by this time, and Union street was blocked with the egger and curious throng nearly all striving to get to some window or door that they might catch a glimpse of the fallen man, and asking each other in a stances of the terrible tragedy. All sorts of stories were affoat, and the excitement was intense. The curiosity of many was revolting in the extreme, and the crowdirg and pushing to attain a position at the front window, where, after all, nothing could be seen, was really disgusting.

nesses were sworn and testified substantially to the facts above mentioned as having occurred on the street. Officer J A Cenley stated, among other things, that the deceased was broathing a little when he arrived upon the spot where he fell, but expired almost immediately. Officer II. H Mansfield testified that McGaveck surrendered himself willingly, and gave up his weapon, a revolver of the Manhattan Company's make—four-inch

The following verdict was rendered by We the Jury empanneled to examine the body of C. H. Bert, from the testimetry introduced, do state that he came shots being fired by P. H. McGavock, about one o'clock of said day, near the corner of Union and Cherry streets, in the

The Reported Conversion of Senator Wilson.
The lioston Journal denies the story that Senator Wilson has made a public profession of religion, and united with Rev. Dr. Kirk's church. This statement sincorrect. The Journal says:

It is based on the fact that Mr. Wilson those mind has of late been turned to consideration of his personal duties to card the cause of Christ, stated at Natio last Sunday that he had consecrated him self to that cause, and hereafter shoul take his stand with the people of God. I is well known that Mr. Wilson has been a is well known that Mr. Wilson has been an attendant at the services of religious meetings now being held in Natick, and has been the subject of many earnest prayers, which have been answered in his conversion. The position which he has taken will cause Christians everywhere to rejoice, and to pray that his influence may be as widely felt in the promotion of the same of Christians.
